

CENTRAL INDIANA | SUMMER 2018

Food is something everyone has in common.

It brings people together during any life event. It can be a lavish indulgence or simply a response to hunger. It can be a focus of politics or a trigger of war. Food links us together. It provides comfort in a time of need, helps us connect with those from different backgrounds and can be a teaching tool to make for a more mindful world. Slow down. Be conscious of the earth, hands and practices in farming as they provide us with the bounty that feeds our bodies, souls and communities.

Garfield Park Farm Market

In 2015 co-founders Ashley Brooks (co-founder of Milktooth) and Julia Woody began to plan the first Garfield Park Farmers Market. They met while serving as board members of Slow Food Indy and were dedicated to creating a market aligned with the Slow Food principles of “Good, Clean and Fair Food for All.” They assembled an amazing board of community leaders, farmers and local-food advocates who formed the the Garfield Park Farmers Market mission: “To support local, sustainable farmers and producers while creating a gathering place for community interactions.” Located in the city’s oldest park, they’ve created an energetic and socially responsible weekly event promoting the values of eating locally, knowing where your food comes from, being conscious about sustainability and caring about the community.

The area surrounding Garfield Park faces poverty levels of over 30% and is considered a food desert. In 2017 there were 7,624 homes that received SNAP benefits. As a nonprofit, the market has dedicated grant funds to bringing opportunities to people who need access to fresh and healthy food. These opportunities include listening to local musicians perform, learning about community programs through their many weekly partners and, on some weeks, exploring Big Car’s Wagon of Wonders, all in the breathtaking park. This year the market has been declared the first Slow Food–approved farmers market in the country.

Slow Food Indy

Slow Food Indy, part of the global Slow Food movement, gathers likely and unlikely allies to transform the way we produce, consume and enjoy food. Our mission—“To inspire individuals and communities to change the world through food that is good, clean and fair for all”—speaks solidly to our goals for 2018. With education events and community conversations, we hope to be a support group for others in our community fighting against food insecurity in the Indianapolis area as well as to support local farmers, artisans and businesses that follow fair and clean practices.

What is the Snail of Approval designation?
SLOW FOOD INDY AWARDS THE SNAIL OF APPROVAL TO FARMS, RESTAURANTS, GROCERIES, FOOD ARTISANS AND BEVERAGE PRODUCERS TO ACKNOWLEDGE THEM FOR THEIR EFFORTS TO CONTRIBUTE TO CREATING A MORE GOOD, CLEAN AND FAIR WORLD.

BECOME A MEMBER OR APPLY FOR A SNAIL OF APPROVAL DESIGNATION AT SLOWFOODINDY.COM.

Taking it deliciously slow.

Embracing food that is good, clean and fair for all, your Carmel Market District is helping to transform the way we produce, consume and enjoy food. Join us as we weave the pleasures of dining with a commitment to local, artisan food producers, culinary culture, biodiversity and sustainability.

And, with that comes a passion for the time it takes to prepare our most treasured dishes: slow-cooked local meats and fresh vegetables, fresh stock and hand-picked potatoes, homemade pasta and bread—it's all part of enjoying the true beauty of food and its infinitely rich flavors.
